“The Idea of America and the Constitutional Debates”

Prof. Daniel Kapust

Professor of Political Science, UW Madison

What is America? How did those tasked with adopting the Constitution decide what America was and what it might be?

Join us for our July program to hear Prof. Daniel Kapust tackle these questions. He will discuss the central issues in the debates over the ratification of the Constitution, where Federalists and Anti-Federalists argued not just about whether to adopt the new Constitution, but about what shape this new country should take.
